

ASU Graduates Give Back!

In less than two months, 40 students will graduate from our Speech-Language Pathology master's degree program.

In completing program requirements, these hard-working students meet rigorous academic, clinical, state, and national standards. For example, each student must complete a minimum of 400 hours of clinical practice -- which totals more than 16,000 clinic hours for the entire class!

None of this would be possible without the help of our off-campus supervisors who diligently supervise ASU students, allowing them to expand their clinical experiences beyond Boone.

These soon-to-be graduates are in the midst of their semester-long internships, across eight states. Several of their supervisors are ASU graduates who are giving back to our department and the profession.

Supervisor Jessica Walker, ASU grad 2016, graduate student Hannah Adams and Supervisor Laura Mabry, ASU grad 2012, at Brenner Children's Hospital, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Supervisor Jacob Cooke, ASU grad 2011, with graduate student Kaitlyn Costner at Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital, Elkin, North Carolina.

Supervisor Kristen DeBord, ASU grad 2013, with graduate student Christina Michel at Wrangell Medical Center, Wrangell, Alaska.

We offer our sincere appreciation for the continued support of the Scottish Rite, without which we could not fulfill our mission.
